DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

2. Claims 1-34 are again rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Mueller U.S. Patent No. 5,725,521.

Mueller discloses a transmyocardial revascularization apparatus and methods of use, the apparatus comprising: a catheter device comprising at least one optical fiber 54 (see Figs. 3 and 4); a first tube, 58, 106, surrounding the optical fiber, and second tube, 50,102, surrounding the first tube (see Figs. 3, 5A, respectively); and a spacer 70 arranged near the distal end of the optical fiber and operable to position the distal end of said optical fiber away from the blood vessel as presently claimed (see Fig. 4).

As to claims 4, 5, 7, 10, 11, and 13-16, the spacer has a plurality of ribs, the ribs extending in a radial direction into a deployed state as claimed (see Fig. 6B).

As to claims 17 and 18, the spacer includes a balloon positioned near the distal end of the optical fiber (see Fig. 6A).

3. Claims 1-3, 6, 8, 9, 12 and 17-34 are again rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Kittrell et al. U.S. Patent No. 5,693,043.

Kittrell et al disclose an endovascular laser treatment device and methods of use, the device comprising: a plurality of optical fibers 20; a spacer 176 arranged near the distal end of the optical fibers; a first tube adapted to receive the optical fibers; and a second tube surrounding the first tube, the spacer being arranged near the distal portion of the second tube as presently claimed (see Figs. 11A, 18, and 24).

As to claims 17 and 18, the spacer includes a balloon positioned near the distal end of the optical fiber (see Fig. 18).

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments filed on January 20, 2005, have been fully considered but they are not persuasive. The applicant argues that neither Mueller nor Kittrell et al. disclose a spacer operable to position/keep the distal end of the optical fiber away from the walls of a blood vessel. He further argues that, in contrary to the instant claims, the devices of Mueller used to create channels, and the device of Kittrell et al. is used to open an occluded blood vessel. In addition, He argues that neither of the references closes a blood vessel to prevent blood flow.

In response to these arguments, the examiner agrees with the applicant that the device Mueller is used to create channels; and the device of Kittrell et al. is used to open an obstructed blood vessel. However, as shown in Figs. 5-6B of Mueller, the spacer is operable to keep the optical fiber away from the walls of a blood vessel if the catheter is inserted into a blood vessel. Similarly, as shown in Fig. 17 of Kittrell et al. the balloon member 176 is operable to position/keep the distal end of the optical fiber away from the walls of the blood vessel if the catheter device is inserted in a blood vessel.

As to the argument that neither of the references prevents blood flow, the applicant's claims do not particularly recite that the spacer prevents blood flow.

Therefore, this argument has not been considered.

Conclusion

THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
